Edmund's Oast is a restaurant like no other, because it's so much more - a unique combination of brewery, seasonally-focused kitchen, and encyclopedic bar program.

Scott Shor had the vision to bring these often-singular pursuits under one roof without sacrificing an inch of quality among them. The restaurant offers an elevated but approachable menu, providing guests a warm and exciting dining experience. Executive Chef Bob Cook's distinctively dynamic menu includes bar snacks, house made charcuterie, small plates, heartier entrees, and classic desserts with a contemporary spin. The food is authentic without pretention, delivering an extraordinary dining experience inspired by the beverages featured on the menu.

The restaurant can accommodate 130 guests inside with seating at the expansive bar, communal tables, and plush booths throughout.

Diners can also sit at the chef's counter and get an up-close view of the action in the open kitchen. Outside, The Bower accommodates 100 seated and 200 standing for cocktail receptions under the temperature control structure. Next to The Bower, there is a spacious, tree-shaded patio with picnic tables which invites guests to relax and enjoy the sunny Charleston weather. There is also a smaller covered area—The Library—perfect for more intimate dinners and functions. And, perhaps best of all, onsite parking is plentiful.

The Library

Tucked away next to the kitchen, The Library has an intimate porch-feel with string lights and candles for an organic downtown feel. It can accommodate up to 50 people standing or 30 seated.

The Bower

This open timber-framed structure is the ideal backdrop for a variety of events and parties. Long wooden community tables are available for sit down dinners of up to 100 people. The space is also ideal for parties and functions that can overflow in the adjacent courtyard if needed. There is a dedicated bar that can allow for beverage service. Best of all, The Bower is temperature controlled with sides that cover, and heating or fans to accommodate depending on the weather. Included in renting the Bower is the courtyard lined with trees and picnic tables making it a perfect spot for a cocktail hour. The entire space allows for up to 250 people standing.

Dinner & Parties

The outside spaces are ideal for dinners and parties. The outdoor 3,400 square foot temperature controlled event space—The Bower—can accommodate approximately 100 guests for a sit down function or 200 for a standing. The adjacent tree shaded space has 8 large wooden tables and can seat 80 guests. The shaded patio outside the kitchen area—The Library—seats 30 guests for a dinner or 60 for a standing, cocktail style reception. The entire restaurant can also be booked in full for a private party.
